

MOBILITY PROVISIONS FOR SPONSORED WORKERS

You may now have more time to find a new sponsor without breaching your visa conditions.
Check your visa conditions and see if these changes apply to you.

Changes to Condition 8107 (Subclass 482 visa)

As of July 2024, visa holders now have extended time to find a new employer without breaching their visa conditions:

- Up to 180 consecutive days, and
- Up to 365 days in total without working, while still holding a Subclass 482 (SID) visa

WHAT CAN YOU DO DURING TRANSITION?

While a Subclass 482 visa holder is between sponsors (for up to 180 consecutive days or 365 total days), they will not breach their visa if they:

- Stop working altogether
- Work for themselves
- Work for a non-sponsoring employer

WHAT YOU CAN DO DURING THIS TIME

While between sponsors, you can:

Stop working altogether

Work for yourself

Work for a non-sponsoring employer

If you've been exploited at work, you may be able to stay in Australia to take legal action.

You'll need certification from a participating government agency or accredited thirdparty confirming:

You've experienced workplace exploitation

You're receiving support to resolve the issue

Click here to learn more about the Workplace Justice Visa:

migrantworkers.org.au/wjv